TELLTALE CHEESECLOTH.

POSSIBLY A CLEW TO THE MYSTERIOUS MURDER IN WAVERLEY PLACE.

THE BANDAGE AROUND THE DEAD WOMAN'S NECK WAS A STRIP OF THE CLOTH USED BY BANKNOTE PRINTERS FOR WIPING

STEEL PLATES-A STORY AS TO

WHERE SHE CAME FROM. The police have noted a circumstance in connection with the murder of the unknown colored woman whose body was found backed to pieces and wrapped in a bundle at Sixth-ave, and Waverley Place at an early hour Sunday morning which they believe will aid in the solution of the mystery. According to this theory, the murder was not committed in Rahway or some other place, and then the body brought to the place where it was found, but the crime was accomplished in the immediate neighborhood of where the mutilated body was

The body was found lying in a little grass plot. inclosed by an iron railing, in front of the building occupied by the New-York Bank Note Company. A piece of cheesecloth had been drawn tightly around the neck, which had choked the woman so badly that her tongue protruded, and caused her Upon this piece of cheesecloth hinges the

It has been ascertained that in all probability the cloth came from the building occupied by the hanknote company. In every place where banknotes, bonds and other paper certificates, such as a banknote company manufactures, are made, the material used in cleaning off the steel plates is cheesecloth. The reason for this is that it is porous and a good absorbent. When the cloth becomes dirty it is sent away and washed in a strong solu tion, which changes it to the peculiar reddish-yellow color of the piece which was found tied around the dead woman's neck. The cheesecloth was an admirable article for the use to which it was put, as while it tears readily one way of the cloth, it is unyielding used as it was.

This clew was later narrowed down to the point that the cloth came out of the room in which the plates were cleaned, and the police theory is that whoever committed the crime must have had access to that room. There is no other place in the neigh borhood where such a piece of cloth could be se-The police have also noted the fact that the cloth might have been secured from the place the cloth might have acceptable washed. They where these cheesecloth rags are washed. They think this is hardly probable, however, and are working on the other supposition.

Captain Delaney was closeted with Acting Inespector McClusky at the Charles-st. station yester-day. When asked about this clew he admitted that the police were working on it, but declined to talk about the matter. Acting Inspector McClusky refused to talk about the case, simply saying that

The first really substantial clew as to the woman's identity came unexpectedly about 10 o'clock yesforenoon. A telephone message from the offices of the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad at Hoboken caused the police to look cheerful and believe that they were possibly on the right trail at last. The message was from an official of the company, saying there was a woman employe of the company who believed that she could identify the dead woman. The police telephoned back to send her over in charge of an officer and confer with Captain Delaney.

The woman arrived about 3 o'clock in charge of C.

Hanson, and was ushered into Captain Delaney's room at the police station. She talked with the police for half an hour, and then she was taken to

She was led into the room where the body was she was led into the room which was removed and lying in a plain deal box. The lid was removed and the woman exclaimed immediately, "That's she!" She looked at the body more intently, and then ex-amined the flannel plane cover. Afterward she was taken into a sideroom with Detective Nugent, th Morgue keeper and several policemen and made a statement. Detective Nugent afterward informed the reporters that the woman was Madora Robin son, of No. 71 York-st., Hoboken, a ladies' maid in the station at Hoboken of the Delaware, Luckawanna and Western Railroad. Madora is a colored

She said that last Tuesday forencon the woman came into the station on the 19:17 o'clock train from Newark. She got into conversation with her, and learned that the woman had come from Heathsville, Va., near Fredericksburg. She had a letter of recommendation, but Madora, the detective said, forgot the name of the person recommended. The Vir-ginia woman, with ten or eleven others, had been sent North by a white man, an employment agent. She had gone into service as a cook in some small town not far from Hoboken, but, not liking the work, started for New-York to seek employment.

That which he did not give was that the dead That which he did not give was that the dead woman told Madora that she was going to visit acquaintances on Thompson-st, this city. The number Madora could not remember.

This was the first real information leading to fixing the locality of the crime, and it was carefully considered at a conference of police officials at Headquarters late in the afternoon.

It was expected that a careful search would be made by detectives last night of all of Thompson-st, and that every house and every room would undergo careful scrutiny for evidences of a mutder. Madora said she could not tell the dead woman's name, but that could be easily learned.

"Just telegraph to the Squire of Heathsville, Va. In sending your telegram make it go through Fredericksburg," she said, "or it will never reach Heathsville. The Squire will tell you her name and probably the rame of those friends on Thompson-st, that she went to visit."

probably the name of those friends on Thompsonst. that she went to visit."
When she was askel if she might not be mistaken in her identification, she said she could not. That she had a very strong memory for faces was shown by her work in the station. She also remembered the old plano cover which the Virginia woman had wrapped about a bundle.

An old man, dressed in a blue sack coat, elerical waistcoat and a slouch hat, and leaning on a cane, visited the Morgue yesterlay afternoon. He introduced himself as Hiram Purdy, a deacon of the Zion Methodist Episcopal Church. He said he was seventy-five years old and was born in Virginia.

"I knowed the gal wah from the Souf and said 'Good day, chile,' an' she said, 'good day,' ...
The old man said he addressed her because he believed in speaking to all the brethren and sisters. He said he held no further conversation with the woman, and could give no information about her.

the woman, and could give no information about her.

At Police Headquarters last night Detective-Sergeant McCluskey was in charge, but at 3 o'clock he and Detective-Sergeant Titus started on some errand which they were careful not to disclose. It was supposed that they went out on business connected with the murder and the expected search through Thompson-st.

Up to midnight last night no arrests in connection with the murder had been made by the police of the Charles-st, station. At the Macdougal and Mercer st, stations it was said that no prisoner had been brought in on a charge of being implicated in the murder, nor had any such prisoner been taken to Police Headquarters up to that time.

The colored people of Rahway continue to be intensely interested in the mystery. The finding of the slip of paper, together with the fact that Mattle Ivory is missing, are the points of interest. Join Edgar, son of Mahlon Edgar, of Bridge-st, Rahway, says that on March 24 the girl came to his father's house, and while there asked to see a heavy band ring he wore. He showed it to her and she put it on. Then she left the house before he thought of it again. She left Rahway early on Monday morning, buying a ticket for New-Yerk. William Finnie, the young Newarker, who called on the girl. He thought she was still in Rahway, he says. He was shown the published pictures of the girl, and said none looked like Mattle, even allowing for inaccuracies. He said he was satisfied the murdered woman was not Mattle, and would not go to New-York to see the body. He returned to Newark in the afternoon.

POLITICAL ODDS AND ENDS.

TO DEFEAT JACOB WORTH'S PURPOSE. REFORM ELEMENTS OF BROOKLYN ARRAYING THEMSELVES AGAINST THE CHARITIES AND CORRECTION BILL.

The reform sentiment in Brooklyn is arraying itself solidly against the proposed single-headed Char-ities Commission bill, engineered by ex-Senator Worth. In commenting upon the subject yesterday, Dr. Lyman Abbott, pastor of Plymouth Church,

In the first place, there is no condition arising in favor of the bill. The Supervisor-at-Large is the proper representative of the county. On him nat-urally devolves the duty of appointing the Commis-sioner of Charities and Corrections, so long as it er of Charifies and Corrections, county office, seend, in a year or two at the most the county of gs and the city of Brooklyn will be identical, in the appointment of the commissioner will not give upon the Mayor. There is a special improvery in forestailing that time and providing behand that the Mayor shall not have the power ich legitimately belongs to his office. Third, it wild be in the power of the people themselves secure the right kind of commissioner. lecting a Supervisor at-large and equally in selecting a Mayor, they are presumed to choose men who have ability in filling such offices by appointment. They do not select either the Sheriff or the County Clerk for this purpose. The effect and the undiscussed object of this bill is to take the appointment of the commissioner away from the people and give it to a political fing.

Fourth, if any credence is to be attached to current history, as it is obtained from the newspaper press and from gentlemen apparently well informed in political matters, Jacob Worth is living at Albeny this winter for the purpose of pushing this bill through in order to secure the office for himself with the saiary and political patronage it confers. Without discussing Jacob Worth's character and history it is perfectly safe to say that Mr. Worth could not receive the appointment from either the Supervisor or the Mayor, and if the office were elective and he were to be nominated for it, he would be defeated by a phenomenal majority.

Avenue Congregational Church, said:

That is the most diabolical bill that ever was projected. I intend to see Governor Morton myself before it is signed.

I have asked all my people in the Twenty-third Ward to write a personal letter to Governor Morton asking him to veto the Charliles bill. It is the most iniquitous measure I ever heard of. Do you know what it means It means diluted food and scanty for the poor people who cannot help themselves; it means sheddy clothing, it means steaking from the poor, helpiess masses to put money year after year into the pockets of one man. The people don't want this iniquitous bill, and I think they ought to hold a great mass-meeting in the Academy of Music to protest against it. The movement that elected Mayor Strong in New-York and Mayor Schieren in Brooklyn can defeat this bill.

CYCLING NEWS AND NOTES.

No effort was made yesterday to open the new roof-garden cycle school at Madison Square Garden, and Frank W. Sanger was one of the few riders who attempted to skim over the roof. With clear weather to-day, the unique school will be formally opened, but if the rain should continue the opening will not take place until it does clear up. The management will take possession of the amphitheatre some time between May 1 and June 1. The exact date cannot be determined upon just now. Yesterday J. W. #### Dangerous Use of Strong Purgatives. Most pills and purgatives which act quickly upon the bowels, irritate and often destroy the mucous coats of the stomach and bowels. Indeed, their cathartic action is directly caused by the irritation of the bowels, which they produce. Their action should be soothing and stimulating instead of irritating. A continued use of such remedies produces chronic inflammation of the stomach and bowels. This often ends in dangerous disease. The use of the genuine imported Carlsbad Sprudel Salt is highly recommended as an aperient, laxative and diuretic, because its action is due solely to its solvent and stimulating properties. It soothes and allays inflammation, and is therefore much preferable to all strong

She had told him frequently, she went on, that if he did not give up that other woman and be a bet-ter husband to her she would end her sorrow by killing herself. He paid but little attention to her threats. One day she found him in the store in threats. One day she found him in the store in company with the woman, and she horsewhipped him. He always claimed that the other woman was only a customer, and he was not intimate with her.

The wife said that this morning she received an anonymous communication, in which was given the full details of her husband's relations with the Eldridge-st woman. She at once hurried downstairs to the drugstore, and found her husband writing a note. She tried to seize it, but he held her off while he tore the note up and swallowed the pieces. Then he raged at her and told her, as she understood his threats, that she had become too troublesome, and he intended to put her in an asylum. She took the poison in front of Katle Morranesky, her servant girl, and the latter ran for the woman's husband. He rushed upstairs and found his wife lying on the floor. He then called Dr. Elsenberg. She will recover.

AGAINST THE DEATH-DEALING TROLLEY.

RESOLUTION PASSED BY THE BROOKLYN MAY-FLOWER MISSION PRESENTED TO PRESI-DENT LEWIS-STINGING WORDS FOR THE OFFICIALS.

The Rev. Horace Porter, pastor of Mayflower Mission, Brooklyn, which is connected with Plymouth Church, accompanied by J. F. Bullenkamp, C. W. Booth and John Bicknell, waited upon Daniel F. Lewis, of the Brooklyn Heights Railroad Company, yesterday and presented to him a resolu-tion which the congregation of the mission had unanimously adopted on Sunday night. The resolution was as follows:

tion was as follows:

We, the friends and neighbors of Frederick Cartwright, pained by the knowledge of his death, caused by the Brooklyn Heights Railroad Company March 25, and moved by the grief of his parents, aware that the responsibility for his death is placed by the Coroner's jury upon the officials of the Brooklyn Heights Railroad Company, express our sympathy with Mr. and Mrs. Cartwright in this affliction.

pathy with Mr. and Mrs. Cartwright in this affiction.

In meeting assembled we do resolve to protest to President Lewis and his associates in the management of the Brooklyn Heights Railroad Company that we hold him responsible and guilty of gross neglect of public duty in not furnishing their cars with adequate fenders; that we charge them with inhuman conduct in causing their cars to be so swiftly run as to have caused the scores of deaths and hundreds of manglings of chizens and children already upon record. Be it therefore Resolved, That we earnestly protest and call upon President Lewis and his associates to use greater caution in the operation of their roads; that they reduce the rate of speed, and that they provide adequate fenders by which these mutilations and deaths may be avoided.

This was signed by nearly every member of the ongregation. The meeting was a private one. Mr. Porter's remarks at the Sunday evening mission meeting were prompted by the fact that the Cartwright boy was a member of the mission Sunday-school. He said then, among other things:

I fear that Daniel F. Lewis has no soil in the light of his treatment of the men he employs and the number of people which he allows to be slain by his cars. I fear he has lost his soul by the development of characteristics of selfishness and greed. He is at the head of a souliess corporation, and I firmly believe that no representative of that corporation has called upon the bereaved family of the slain boy to express the slightest sympathy or feeling.
Selfishness and greed have dulled his senses, hilmded his eyes and stopped his ears against the suffering, sorrow and walling over the dead.
I speak deliberately when I state that more than to individuals have suffered directly from troiley accidents. This number includes the victims families who were touched and bereaved by irreparable losses. We do not feel the force of such a blow until it is driven home to us. While the slangher goes on we stand by quiet and indifferent, which Indeed shows us to be "a patient and long-suffering public" He said then, among other things:

In closing Mr. Porter said: The motorman, like a slave, is driven to the daily slaughtering, but President Lewis can no longer hoodwink the public with his great death-dealing elephant.

HORSEWHIPPED BY A WOMAN.

MORTIMER H. BAKER GETS A SEVERE THRASH-ING AT THE HANDS OF MISS TILLIE TOODLES IN THE STREETS OF CAMDEN.

Camden, N. J., April 1.-A woman slashing a man across the head and shoulders with a horsewhip attracted a crowd in Federal-st., near Front, shortly before noon to-day. The man who was whipped is Mortimer II. Baker, a telegraph operator employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company anden. The woman who wielded the whip is mown as Tille Toolles. The story told by the infuriated Tillie after she had put Baker to flight with her whip was that he had been paying attention to her for the last year and had promised to marry her. She asserts that May 15 had been fixed for the welding day, but to her astonishment she recently received a call from a woman who said recently received a call from a woman who said that she was liaker's wife. After this interview Tillie prepared for revenge. She wrote a letter asking Baker to meet her this morning at Front and Foderal sts. She had a horsewhip concealed under her cloak. When the telegraph operator arrived at the trysting place Tillie drew her whip and, with the remark. You will deceive me, will you?" she cut him across the head and shoulders. The blows were vigorously delivered, and blood flowed. A crowd quickly sathered. Baker tried to withstand the torrent of blows, but soon decided that discretion was the better part of valor and fled down the street.

MURDERED HER CHILDREN WHILE THEY SPEPT Columbus, Ohlo, April 1.-Two small children were found dead in bed in a room in the Park Hotel this afternoon, with their throats cut. On Saturday a neatly dressed woman came to the hotel, accompanied by three children, and reg-istered as Mrs. H. H. B. Williams and children, Grove City, Ohio. The children were Harry Will-lams, need seven: Mand Williams, aged twelve, and Annie, aged thirteen. It was the two younger children who were found dead. They were as-signed to a room with two beds. Annie and her mother occupied one of the beds, and the two younger children the other. Some time in the night, it is supposed. Mrs. Williams murdered the children, and covered their bodies with the bedding, then went away. Annie Williams says her mother left the room about 8:39 o'clock this morning, but before going told her not to go near the bed in which her brother and sister were. She obeyed, and so it was not until the chambermaid came in to make the beds that the tragedy was discovered. There was found at the foot of the bed a razor, with which the bloody deed was done. W. H. H. Williams, husband of the woman, does business here, though for several years he has lived at Grove City a suburb about twelve miles south of here. He is an insurance agent and an oil salesman. Williams and his daughter Annie were locked up in the city prison, pending an investigation of the murder. Mrs. Williams was found to-night at the house of a friend in this city. younger children the other. Some time in the night

REPORT ABOUT HARMONY MILLS DENIED. Albany, April 1.-The report in newspapers that Job E. Prest, the new superintendent of the Harnony Mills, at Coboes, had ordered all benches taken out, forcing the operatives to stand and giving rise to a report that the operatives would ing rise strike, is denied. Superintendent Prest states that he has issued no such order and is at a loss to know how such a report gained publicity. No strike is anticipated.

THE AUBREYS REACH A SETTLEMENT. Chicago, April 1.-The attorneys for J. Matt Au brey, jr., son-in-law, of Chief Justice Fuller, admitted to-day that there would be no contest when the suit for divorce brought by Mrs. Aubrey came to trial. A settlement has been effected, but the terms are kept secret except that Mrs. Aubrey has agreed to allow her husband to have the custody of the two children two months each year, and to communicate with them at all times. It is said that money entered into the settlement and that Aubrey will join Richard Mansfield's company next

"Castoria is so well adapted to children thas I recommend it as superior to any prescription known to me." H. A. ARCHER, M. D., I II South Oxford St., Brooklyn, N. Y.

From personal knowledge and observation I can say that Castoria is an excellent medicine for children, acting as a laxative and relieving the pent up bowels and general system very much. Many mothers have told me of its excellent effect upon their children."

Lowell, Mass.

"For several years I have recommended 'Castoria,' and shall always continue to do so as it has invariably produced beneficial results." Enwis F. Pasner, M.D., 125th Street and 7th Ave., New York City.

"The use of 'Castoria' is so universal and ita merits so well known that it seems a work of supererogation to endorse, it. Few are the intelligent families who do not keep Castoria within easy reach."
